FOREWORD

TO those who today would know the page they have written in the history of George Washington University; to those who have gone before, and to those who will follow after us; to those who in after years will gaze between these covers and keep memories aglow; to all those who cherish our Alma Mater,—

Greetings.

ALMA MATER

Come, let us sing George Washington's praise,
Songs to Alma Mater raise,
Come, let us honor that great name
Loved by us, and of spotless fame.
Through years of toil we can see
The path of thy prosperity;
Onward and upward let it be,
Alma Mater, hail to thee.

Learning and honor here await
All who pass within thy gate.
New friends, old friends, tried and true,
Gather 'neath the buff and blue.
Help us then to always be
Held fast in close fraternity
Whenever thy loved name we see,
Alma Mater, hail to thee.

When these are parted who sing today,
When from college halls we stray,
Years will have passed, but still we'll praise
Our happy by-gone college days.
Here we pledge with sincerity
That in our memory you will be
George Washington University,
Alma Mater, hail to thee.

‡Died June 18, 1926.

ON November 7, 1923, William Mather Lewis was inaugurated as President of George Washington University. The ceremony took place in Memorial Continental Hall that afternoon, and was attended by educators and men of affairs from all parts of the country.

President Lewis was born in Howell, Michigan. He was graduated from Lake Forest College in 1900 with the degree of A. B., and received his A. M. from Illinois College in 1902. Since becoming President of George Washington he has been the recipient of two honorary degrees: the degree of LL. D. from Lake Forest College in June, 1924, and the degree of LL. D. from Norwich University in June, 1925.

He was an instructor at Illinois College from 1900 to 1903. The following three years he acted as instructor at Lake Forest College. From 1906 to 1913 he was Headmaster at Lake Forest Academy. The last two years of this period he was President of the Board of Education of Lake Forest, and from 1909 to 1912, lectured at the McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago.

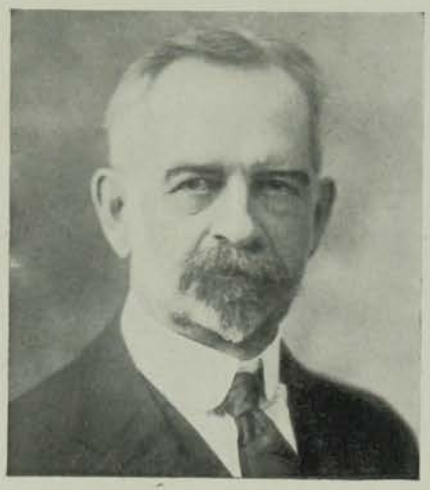

During 1913-14 President Lewis traveled in England, France, and Germany, studying the educational systems of those nations. Upon his return to Lake Forest he was elected Mayor of the city.

Upon the entrance of America into the war in 1917 he came to Washington as Executive Secretary of the National Committee of Patriotic Societies. From 1919 to 1921 he was director of the Savings Division of the Treasury Department, in which capacity he developed a National Thrift Campaign during the difficult post-war period. In 1921 he became head of the Education Service of the United States Chamber of Commerce, giving up this work to assume the Presidency of the University in 1923.

In his inaugural address President Lewis said, "The ideal which we seek is a university with national character and influence a university sending into every corner of the land an ever-increasing company of men and women with physical stamina, intellectual strength and spiritual power; a university true to the name of George Washington and pledged to the upbuilding of our America."

Since that time the President has worked untiringly to accomplish this ideal, and the fruits of his work are to be seen in the strengthened standards and improved facilities of the University.

There is an increased loyalty, a heightened love for the University abroad on the campus which may be traced to the energy and ideals of William Mather Lewis.

The Newman Club

THE Newman Club of George Washington University was founded to bring the Catholic students into closer acquaintance with one another, to seek information of Catholic intellectual interests and particularly to increase the good will that exists between Catholics and non-Catholics at this University.

Organized in 1924, the club has grown rapidly until now it numbers almost a hundred members. It has become one of the most active organizations on the campus. Meetings are held twice a month at which subjects of current interest are discussed and these are augmented by various social gatherings throughout the year.

THE Art Promoters Club is unique in the history of Washington and George Washington University. Founded about four years ago by Dr. Gertrude Richardson Brigham, it has become a very real factor in the artistic life of students and others in the National Capital. Visitors and residents hitherto unknown to its members have become their friends, studios throughout the city are open to them, and its Oriental clubroom at 2009 Eye Street, Northwest, has become headquarters for talks, teas, dancing, and exhibitions.

GRADUATES of George Washington University to the number of eight thousand are making their homes in every state of the Union and in many foreign countries. It is the purpose of the General Alumni Association to form a connecting link between these alumni and the University and between individual members of the alumni body. Without such an organization, in the hurry and flurry of modern life, old college friends and memories might linger but a few years in our thoughts.

The General Alumni Association is composed of graduates from all departments of the University. By virtue of a recent amalgamation, membership in a departmental alumni organization now entitles an alumnus to full privileges in the General Alumni Association. The greatest of these privileges is that of voting for alumni trustees of the University, for G. W. alumni are represented by six members on the University Board. Another privilege is that of attending monthly luncheons which the Association holds during the academic year for Washington alumni.

AS the Alumni Association of the Law School, this organization cooperates in all ways with the General Alumni Association. By mutual agreement, law members of either organization are given full recognition by the other society. Graduation from the Law School makes every alumnus a member of the Columbian-George Washington Law School Association for one year. The association offers a hearty welcome to the members of the graduating classes.

LOCAL ALUMNI CLUBS

Groups of alumni of George Washington University have settled in many of the larger cities of the country. In some of these localities our graduates have banded themselves into local alumni clubs. In others there is no definite organization, although there is a certain unity of feeling and action. It is the policy of the General Alumni Association to foster the establishment and development of local alumni organizations.

THE George Washington University Medical Society was organized in 1905 for the purpose of promoting friendly intercourse among the Medical Alumni and particularly to encourage the younger graduate to develop in the field of his chosen profession. The faculty of that day took an active part in its organigation. The following may be mentioned as assisting materially in furthering this movement and as being regular in attendance at the earlier meetings: Dr. C. W. Richardson, Professor of Oto Laryngology; Dr. A. F. A. King, Professor of Obstetrics; Dr. D. K. Shute, Professor of Anatomy; Dr. H. C. Yarrow, Professor of Dermatology; Dr. J. W. Bovee, Professor of Gynaecology; Dr. W. F. R. Phillips, Dean of Medical School; Dr. John B. Nichols, Professor of Histology; Dr. W. P. Carr, Professor of Physiology; Dr. E. G. Seibert, Professor of Chemistry; Dr. N. P. Barnes, Professor of Materia Medica; Dr. A. Barnes Hooe, Associate in Gynaecology; and Dr. Lewis H. Taylor, Associate in Surgery. It may well be added that the interest of the faculty has always continued and that there has been no one more active in support than Dean W. C. Borden. Meetings have been held on the third Saturday of each month during the school year since the Society's inception.

Students of the upper classes have always been welcomed at its meetings and from time to time the student or the younger graduate has offered creditable papers which have been given kindly criticism by those more experienced. To induce the younger man to come forth with his efforts prizes have been offered for the best paper from a graduate who has been out of school no longer than five years. To show the success of the training given, it is only necessary to glance over the list of officers and of those active in larger medical organizations both local and national. Therein will be found frequent repetition of names of former officers and essayists in our School Society.

On two occasions the University has devoted one of its Bulletins to this Society. A perusal of the October, 1920, and June, 1917, editions will reveal papers of much merit written by products of our Medical School. At this point it might be added that continuously the laboratories in the Medical School and its clinicians are turning out work of high scientific value. This work is presented to our Medical Society and then frequently finds its publication in an alien medical journal. All of it belongs in a George Washington University Medical Bulletin.

To stimulate the younger graduate's ambition and to allow him opportunity to hear words from the lips of recognized leaders in the Medical World, each year a man of the highest standing is invited to give an address. The local medical profession is invited to be present on that evening.

Of no small value is the Social Hour following the Scientific Session. Here, over cups of coffee or mayhap "George Washington Punch" there is friendly intercourse; good fellowship develops and the result, we are sure, is the kindling of the fires of interest and love for our ALMA MATER.

Hail to the Buff, Hail to the Blue,
Hail to the Buff and the Blue.
Watch our men go 'round their end,
Fighting for G. W. U.
When the sun sinks in the golden west,
Victory upon our team will rest.

Cross-Country

CROSS-COUNTRY began its second season at George Washington early in the fall with a good-sized squad reporting for practice. Horace Domigan was chosen to captain the harriers, and Milton Dennis was picked to act as manager. Hurd Willett, stellar distance man, was the only other veteran to return. Several new men came out, among them being Pomeroy, Johnson, Baker, Fugitt, and Brown. Try-outs were held in Rock Creek Park during October.

The squad journeyed to Williamsburg, Va., on October 23, where they were entered in a triangular meet against William and Mary and Richmond University. Although Hurd Willett won the 5½-mile run in an easy fashion, covering the distance in 30 minutes and 4 seconds, William and Mary took top honors, 23-41. Richmond University placed third with 56 points. This run formed part of the Homecoming Day festivities at the Virginia institution, the runners crossing the finish line between the halves of the G. W.-William and Mary football game.

A 3-mile run between the Varsity and Freshman teams was staged on November 6 at the American League Park, between the halves of the George Washington-Ursinus football game. This race gave the coach and manager a line on the new material, and aided them in selecting the team to go to Philadelphia for the Sesquicentennial run the following week.

In the Sesquicentennial Meet at Philadelphia on Nov. 11, Willett finished twelfth in the 6-mile grind sponsored by the National Junior A. A. U. Baker, Pomeroy and Brown were other members of the G. W. team who finished.

Thanksgiving morning the Buff and Blue harriers met Johns Hopkins in a 5-mile run around the Speedway. Gwinn, of Hopkins, took the lead early in the race, and was never headed. Scheibel, of the visitors, was second with Willett a close third.

On December 18, G. W. acted as host for the South Atlantic Cross-country Championship run over a 6-mile course in Rock Creek Park. Johns Hopkins won the team trophy, although William Agee, of the Emorywood A. C., finished first for the third consecutive year. Domigan and Willett finished fourth and eighth, respectively.

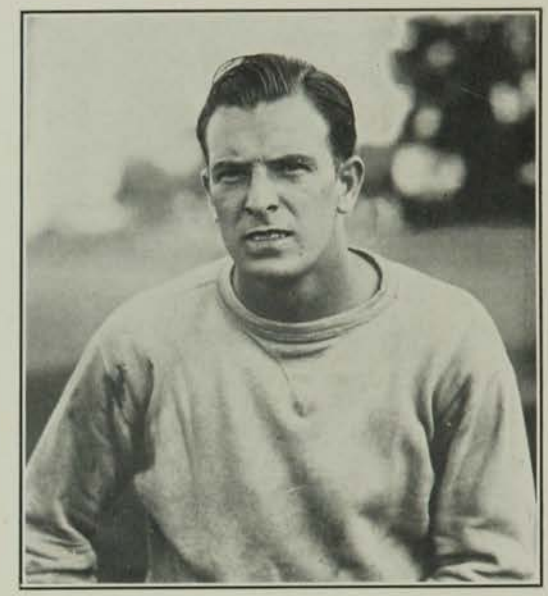

Several meets were held at different places in which G. W. men were entered: the 10-mile race in Baltimore, New Year's Day; George Washington's Birthday run in Washington; and the meet held under the auspices of the Emorywood A. C. in Baltimore on February 27.

Cross-country is fast becoming a popular sport of the University and the reopening of the season in the fall is looked forward to with enthusiasm.

TENNYSON

DICKINSON

Playing the hardest schedule ever attempted by a George Washington University eleven, the football team turned in a highly satisfactory record for the season, winning five of the nine games played and losing only to teams which are numbered among the most powerful aggregations in the East. Coach Crum issued a call for candidates during the first week in September, and the forty-odd aspirants for berths on the eleven commenced a stiff two-week conditioning period at College Park. The Coach was greeted by eight familiar faces at the training camp, among them being

VIETHMEYER

Captain Sapp, "Reds" Allshouse, and Guy Hottel, former captain of the Buff and Blue team, Coleman, one of the speedy backfield men who had seen service the year before, and Athey, also a varsity man, were among the veterans to report. With these men as a nucleus, Crum, assisted by the newly appointed Assistant Coach, Carl Davis, succeeded in finding the combination which seemed to function smoothest, a team which acquitted itself in a creditable manner against such formidable foes as Bucknell, Penn State, William and Mary, and our traditional enemy, Catholic University.

HARRIS

For the most part, the line seemed well-nigh impenetrable and the backfield proved to be a fast, aggressive outfit, scoring 131 points as compared with 84 for their opponents. Beside Sapp, who in addition to leading the team, showed an uncanny knack of dodging and twisting through the line and around the ends, as well as no little ability in the art of hurling passes, Stehman, a newcomer, was clearly an outstanding performer in the backfield. He was a consistent ground gainer, a good passer and an exceptional punter.

The Hatchetites, rechristened "Colonials", met the College of the City of New York in the opening encounter of the season, and staging a last minute rally, succeeded in vanquishing the Gothamites by a score of 10-7. This tilt afforded the Colonial coaches an excellent opportunity for testing out the strength of their men and trying out most of the new material. Weaknesses which were discovered in the team were overcome, and the following Saturday the Buff and Blue squad journeyed up to Lewisburg, Pa., to tackle the Bucknell eleven. Displaying a "do or die" spirit the George Washington crew forced the Bisons to extend themselves in order to garner a 13-0 verdict.

The American University Methodists were next on the list, and although they presented a light, inexperienced combination, they gave the Crum-Davis machine considerable opposition, finally succumbing to the tune of 28-7. Many second string men were sent into this fracas, thus giving the G. W. mentors a line on their ability.

Blue Ridge College was victimized next; the Hatchetites scoring almost at will against the Marylanders and subduing them 39-3. The Crummen missed several golden opportunities to score when costly fumbles hampered their advance. This game was played at the Central High School Stadium.

The team, accompanied by a small but enthusiastic group of students, travelled to Williamsburg, Va., on the following Saturday, where they engaged the strong William and Mary eleven. In this fray, which formed a part of the Homecoming Day festivities at the Virginia school, the Colonial line proved to be most stubborn, forcing the Indians to resort to passes and end runs to score their two touchdowns. Stehman was injured in practice before the game, so the Hatchetites were forced to do without his valuable services. The Virginians did their scoring in the second and third periods, emerging with the long end of a 14-0 count.

The powerful Penn State team was the next to be encountered, and although the Nittany Lions defeated the visiting Crum team, they were forced to trot out their entire galaxy of stars in order to dispose of the fighting Washingtonians by a 20-12 verdict. This battle showed the eleven at the peak of its stride. The Crum-Davis line held like the proverbial stone wall, and succeeded in holding the Lions scoreless throughout the entire second half. "Sag" Harris scooped up a Penn fumble during the first few minutes of play, and raced 70 yards for the initial tally. Capt. Sapp accounted for the other Buff and Blue marker by intercepting a Nittany pass, and running half the length of the field for the other Hatchetite tally.

Designated as the Walter Camp Memorial Game, the next engagement, with Ursinus College, was played at the American League Park, and resulted in a 6-3 victory for the Colonials. A part of the proceeds of this tilt went toward the fund which will build the Walter Camp Memorial arch at the entrance to the Yale Bowl at New Haven. The Bears, who had held the Buff and Blue to a scoreless tie the year before at Collegeville, were finally downed. This game was featured by the brilliant overhead attack of the Crum outfit, but was marred by several costly fumbles, which kept them from scoring further.

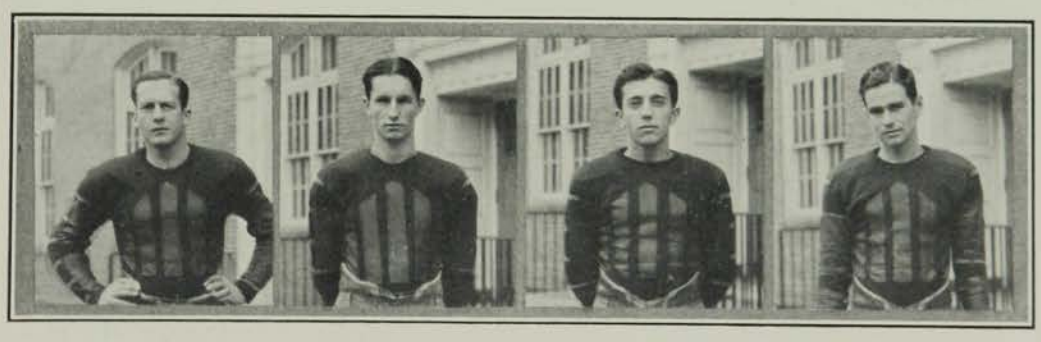

H. CLARK HARTZOG FLOYD TOLER

Randolph-Macon was met and defeated by a 27-0 tally in the next encounter. The Colonials had no difficulty in disposing of their lighter opponents, who furnished little in the way of real opposition. Harris was the individual star of the afternoon, scoring three of the four touchdowns credited to the Buff and Blue.

A brilliant aerial attack gave Catholic University a 17-9 victory over the Hatchetites in a thrilling game played on Thanksgiving Day at the Brookland Stadium. The two elevens were well matched, and the crowd of over ten thousand half-frozen rooters were kept on their feet constantly by the sterling football which was exhibited. The Colonial line performed in a splendid manner, holding the Cardinals at bay, and forcing the latter to use the overhead game. In the first quarter, Stehman kicked a goal from placement, giving the Crum team a three point lead. Walker, G. W. center, accounted for another six points in the second period when he picked up a fumble and negotiated the remaining distance to the goal line. The long Cardinal passes, which netted the Red and Black a total of 134 yards, proved the undoing of the Hatchetites.

In the line Wisner and Walker, both newcomers, alternated at the pivot post. They were aggressive on the offense, steady passers, and backed up the line in fine fashion when on the defense. Hottel and Athey were bulwarks of strength. These two men in the guard positions furnished a vast amount of the pep and punch shown by the forwards, and it was a rare occasion when any one succeeded in carrying the ball past them. H. Veithmeyer, Van Meter, and R. Clark shone in the tackle berths. All three are rangy fellows and many times beat the ends in getting down under punts, nailing their man with unerring skill. On the wings, Captain-elect Allshouse,

WILLIAMS R. CLARK CLEMENTS PERRY

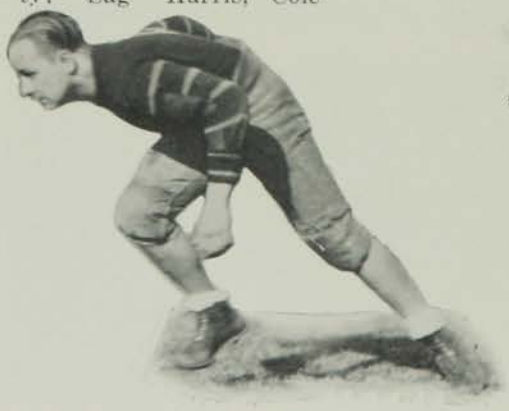

Carey, and Perry provided a trio of ends who could do virtually everything an end should; they are fast, have an uncanny ability for snaring forward passes, and were very seldom taken out of a play. Hartzog, Toler, and White were also alternated at guard and tackle, and constituted a strong reserve trio.

Captain Henry Sapp was the pivot around which the backfield was built. He is clever, fast, a remarkable passer, and is particularly adept at the art of broken-field running. Closely pressing him for top honors are Ivan Stehman, a triple threat man of great ability; "Sag" Harris, Coleman, and Lopeman. This quartet were consistent ground gainers, and played brilliantly during the entire schedule.

On the whole, the season was the most successful of recent years, notwithstanding the fact that the team suffered four defeats in nine starts. The caliber of teams met was a great improvement over former years, and with the advent of the one-year rule in 1927, an even better showing is expected. The highest praise should go to "Maud" Crum and Carl Davis for their efforts in the development of such an aggressive team.

GETTING away to a rather inauspicious start, the team picked up momentum as the season progressed, winding up their schedule in a blaze of glory by defeating Catholic University in the final encounter by a one-point margin.

Practice began in the first part of December, when "Jimmie" Lemon issued a call for candidates. Thirty likely men responded, and, after several workouts, the squad was cut to thirteen and the shaping of a team began in earnest.

The season was officially opened by a win over the fast Delaware University aggregation by a 29-28 count.

Having a wealth of able material, the coach, at first, worked a two-team system, emphasizing the defensive game. The first quint was composed of Bland and Carey, forwards; Allshouse, center, and Sapp and Wallace, guards. The other combination which alternated with the first group included Motyka and Barrow in the front positions; Veithmeyer as pivot, and Perry and Levin at guard. Out of these ten men only Wallace, Sapp, Allshouse and Levin were veterans. The five man defense was used to advantage early in the season, but this system later gave way to the more effective man-to-man hook up.

In the second game High Point College was met and downed by a 27-23 decision, which was balanced by a 37-33 defeat at the hands of the Gallaudet five.

The sensational American University dribblers came to the Hatchetites' lair with an impressive string of victories and walked off with a well earned 21-18 verdict. In this contest Coach Lemon abandoned his two-team policy, making no substitutions.

After scoring several wins, and suffering about an equal number of defeats, the G. W. courtmen journeyed to Catholic University, where they nearly upset the "Cardinals"; finally losing 22-18.

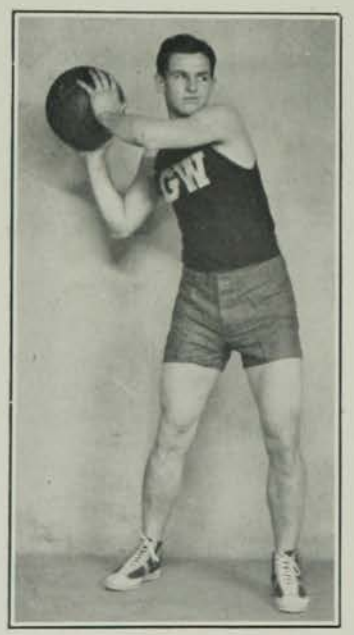

In the following game played in the "G" Street Gym, St. Bonaventure downed the Colonials 21-18.

The next contest, that with American University, showed a remarkable change in the Buff and Blue team. The Lemonites earned a decisive victory over the Methodists by a score of 23-21.

The Colonials had hit their stride. In the next game William and Mary bowed to the G. W. cagemen, 22-14; and Western Maryland was defeated 31-28.

The final battle of the season against the invading Cardinal team, played to the largest and most enthusiastic group of loyal G. W. students that was ever assembled to see their team, proved to be one of the fastest and most tense exhibitions of basketball ever played on the local floor. Coming from behind, the fighting Colonials, in the last minute, outplayed the Cardinals, reputed to be one of the outstanding teams in the East, to win 28-27. But six men, Capt. Wallace, Carey, Sapp, Goodson, Bland, and Barrow, were used during the entire game.

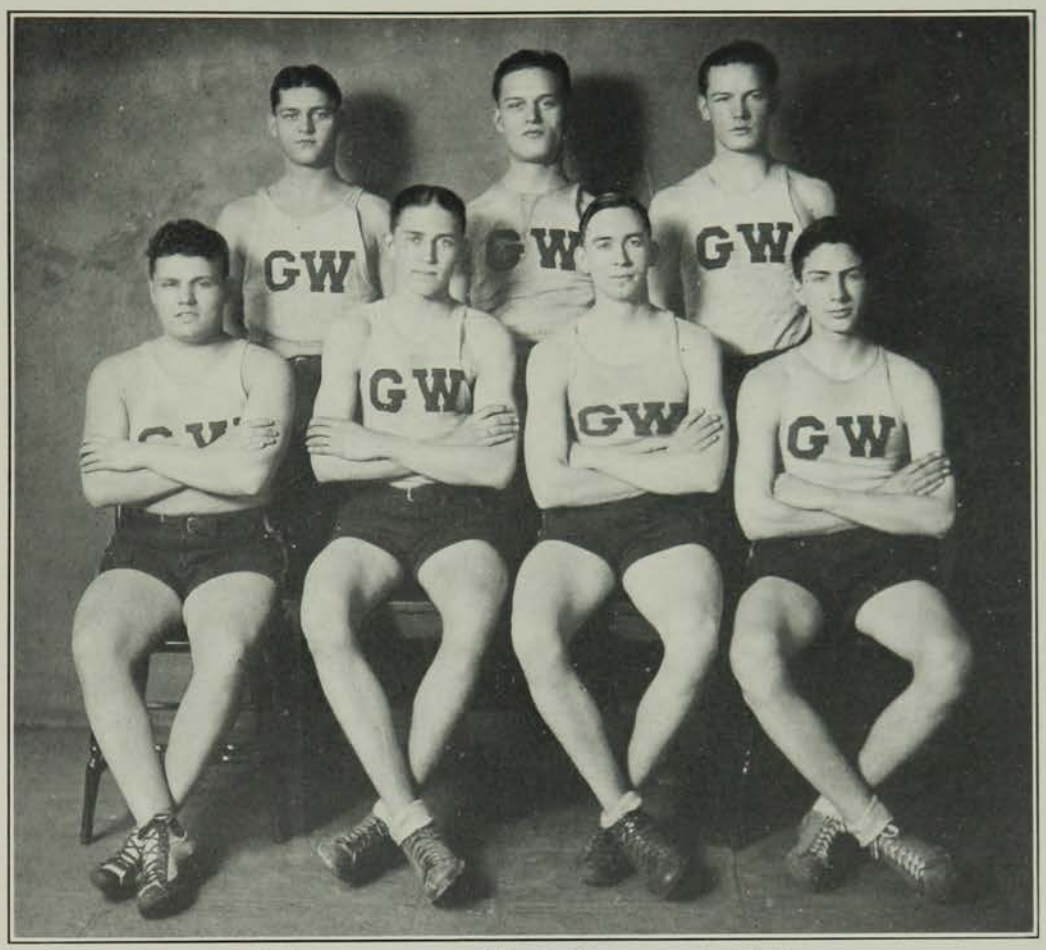

From the beginning of the campaign to the final whistle, the consistent and brilliant work of Capt. Fred Wallace, high-point man; Jimmy Carey, versatile forward and guard; Allen Perry, a mid-season find; Haun and Goodson, centers; and Henry Sapp, Alton Bland, and "Reds" Allshouse, forwards, marks them as outstanding men.

With the opening of the season early in October, a call was made for men to come out for the squad. A good number responded, and practice began at once. Keen competition for berths on the team was evidenced, and the members of last year's squad who returned to G. W. were hard pressed to retain their places.

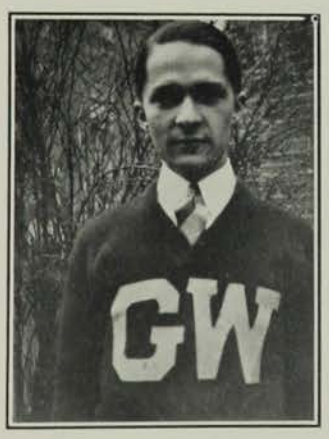

Hugh Riley, captain, John Plugge, manager, and Robert Leighey, three of the five men who were on last year's smallbore team which won the Eastern Intercollegiate Championship in the shoulder-to-shoulder match in New York, were back again getting into trim.

Frank T. Parsons, Jr., John A. Schricker, and F. Neilson Strawbridge, members of the "Service Rifle" team which was defeated only by the Navy in the outdoor Intercollegiates at the Naval Academy range last May, also returned to G. W. Other members of last year's squad shooting for G. W. this year are George B. Campbell and Richard G. Radue. From the new material reporting for rifle, William Lane, Willard Isham, Jr., and Spencer Prentiss, were selected as members of the squad with which Coach Walter R. Stokes is confident of keeping the Buff and Blue "out in front."

Starting in January, the G. W. team shot seven matches in the Intercollegiate League matches. George Washington is a member of League "A", which consists of eight members.

Shoulder-to-shoulder matches were scheduled with the D. C. National Guards and the Penn State teams. These matches were shot just before the Eastern Intercollegiate Championship match in New York, the final match of the indoor season.

In twelve matches, the Stokesmen lost but to Norwich University. Among the outstanding victories scored by the Buff and Blue were those over the Navy, 1434-1394, and the Alumni Team, composed of former G. W. stars, by the close margin of 1435-1421. Both of these matches were shoulder-to-shoulder.

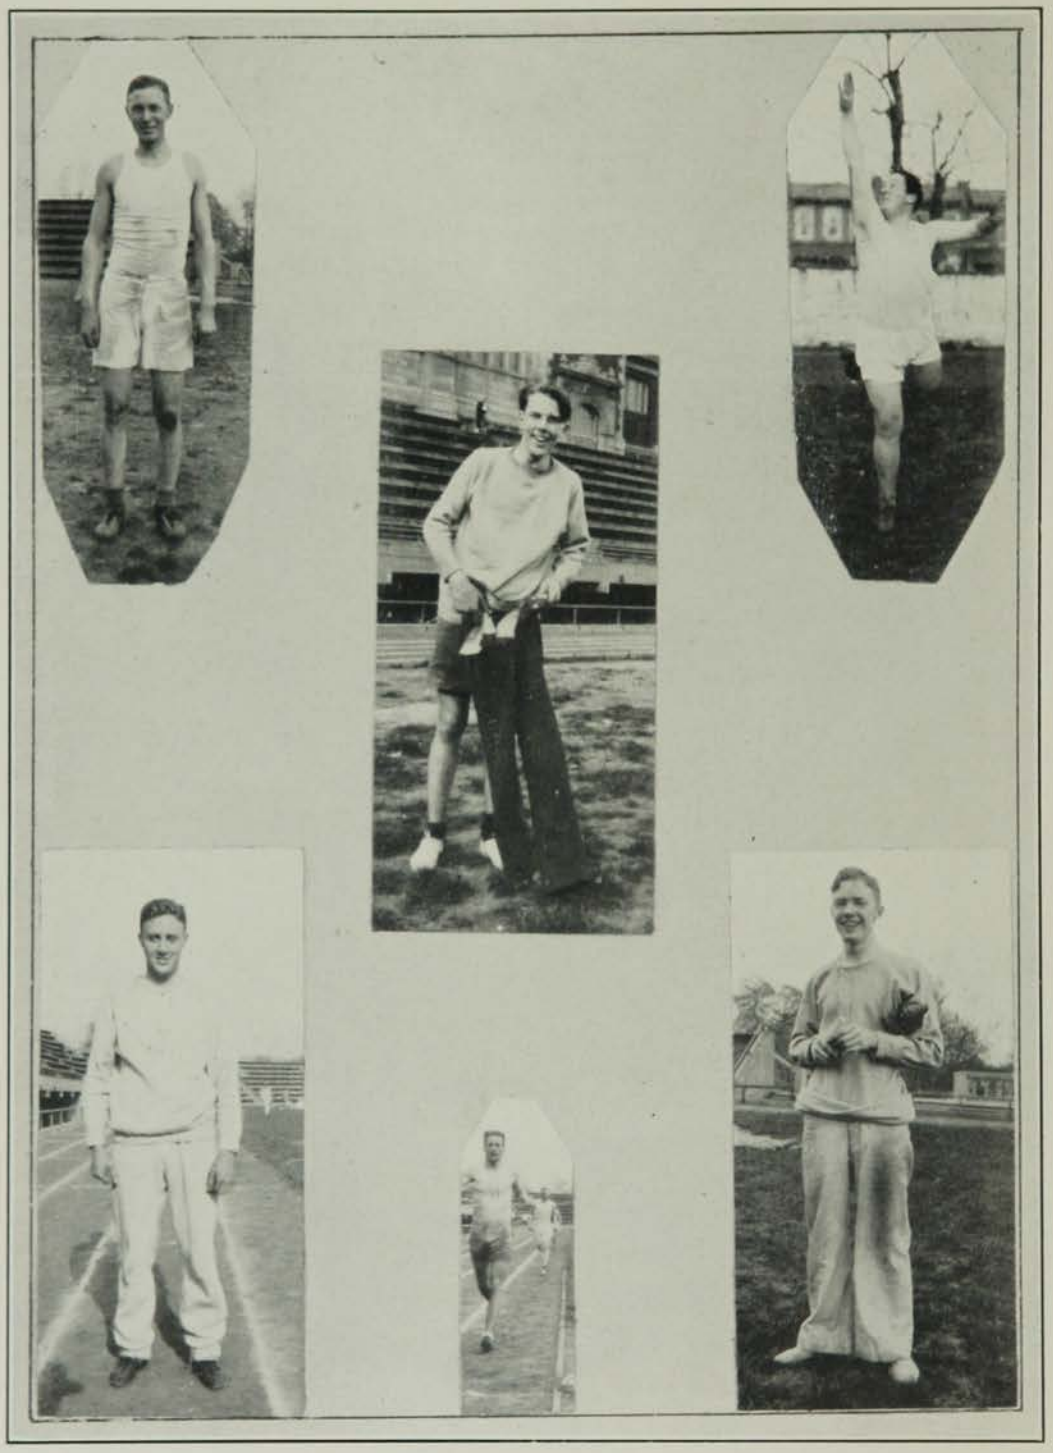

PLUGGE
Manager

Immediately after the close of the indoor season, the team began practicing with service rifles on the outdoor range at Camp Simms. Meets with the D. C. National Guards, and Navy, at Annapolis, have been arranged, and were shot prior to the Outdoor Intercollegiate matches which were held at the Naval Academy about the middle of May.

Varsity Track

UNDER the direction of its veteran coach, Tom Probey, the Varsity Track squad is undergoing a series of strenuous workouts in preparation for the stiff schedule which it faces. One of the largest squads in history responded to the call for candidates for practice early in March.

Although Captain Willett, Domigan and Popham were the only veterans from last year's squad who returned to school, several promising new men came out.

With the Fourth Annual Interclass Track and Field Meet in mind, the squad began its daily practices, gradually rounding into shape as the meet approached. Prospects for the season seem very bright, as several good men were uncovered in the Interclass games. Several old meet records went by the boards, and it is expected that the newcomers will bolster the strength of the team materially.

On April 23 a squad of twenty men met William and Mary at Williamsburg. The Indians came off with top honors, amassing 92½ points against 33½ for the Colonials. The outstanding performances of the meet were those of Baker, who romped away with the 880 in 2:04-6, and Pomeroy, who nosed out Chaplan to win the two-mile run. Pomeroy's time was 10:36-6. Domigan took third place in this event. Baker also took third in the 440.

The showing made by the G. W. cinder team against William and Mary was a very creditable one, since most of the Indian performers are veterans. Abbot of G. W. placed second and third, respectively, in the high and low hurdles, while Popham took second honors in the shotput. In the discus, Suter was second and Walker third. Elliott placed second in the broad jump, and tied for third in the pole vault, while Hall took second in the latter event.

Meets are scheduled with Catholic University, on May 7, and with Gallaudet College on May 14. A triangular meet, G. W.-Catholic University-Johns Hopkins is booked for May 21 at the C. U. Stadium.

Much credit is due the individual members of the squad, Coach Probey, and Manager Dennis, for the success of this year's Track team. Indications point to a bright season next year, as but few of the men will be lost by graduation.

WOMEN'S varsity hockey ending its first year as a major letter sport had a comparatively successful season. The three games played resulted in a 3-1 victory over American University, a 3-3 tie with Holton Arms, and a 6-3 defeat at the hands of the William and Mary College eleven.

Since it was first started three years ago at the University, great strides have been made in this sport, prominent in college activities for women everywhere. This was the first year of Buff and Blue participation in Intercollegiate hockey and because of the increasing interest and success of the squad hockey is now a recognized major sport.

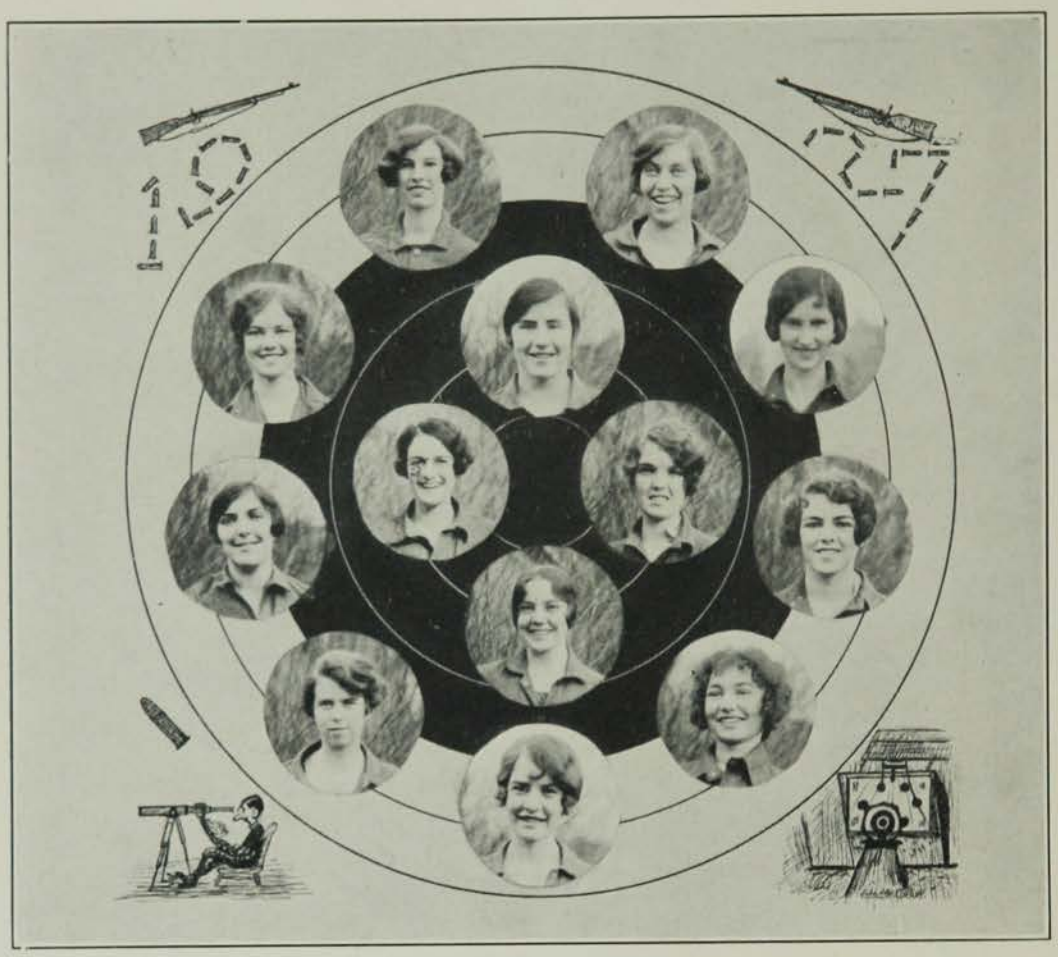

At the annual hockey luncheon the following girls were awarded their major letters in recognition of their work on the team: Alice Graham, Captain; Margaret Schwartz, Manager; Betty Brandenburg, Myrtle Crouch, Louise DuBose, Mary Ewin, Mary K. A TEAM comprised of five of last year's splendid varsity squad and the same number of new recruits succeeded this season in shooting its way to the National Intercollegiate Championship. For the past three years the team has held second place, having been defeated by various colleges for first honors. Eugenia Cuvillier, a "rookie," made the highest score of the match, aggregating 599 points out of a possible 600. The other girls who fired in the N. R. A. Championship Match were Katherine Shoemaker, Captain, Ermyntrude Vaiden, Manager, Helen Taylor, Mae Huntzberger, Helen Prentiss, Marjorie Folsom, Verna Parsons, Betty Clark, and Suzanne Jamison.

The team has defeated all the leading colleges of the country this season, competing in fourteen matches, and firing perfect scores in more than half of them. This betters the high record that has been maintained by our former rifle teams.

FACING one of the most difficult schedules that the co-ed basketers have ever yet encountered, the coach succeeded in building up a sextet composed of the best of last year's squad and some excellent new material which registered four victories out of the seven teams met.

The schedule began February 4 at Kendall Green when the Colonials defeated Gallaudet. The following week Western Maryland went down under the onslaught of the determined Colonials. In the game against Swarthmore the Buff and Blue team met their first defeat before the superior team-work of the Pennsylvanians. The Westhampton combination proved too much also, and the final count was against the fair tossers of the Buff and Blue. The second encounter with Gallaudet was even more of a decisive victory than the former game. Using many substitutes the Colonials were still able to decisively defeat the girls from Kendall Green. On the home court the Hatchetites were defeated by the visiting William and Mary team 31-13. During the first half of this game the best basketball of the year was exhibited. The next game with Western Maryland atoned for the defeat, as the G. W. co-eds vanquished the Eastern Shore sextet 26-18.

Positions in the forward field were keenly contested by Alys Ewers, Naomi Crumley, and Merla Matthews. Louise Omwake and "Jimmie" Cate made an excellent pivot combination, and were ably relieved at times by Jean Jackson and Alice Massey. Captain Winnie Faunce, Elizabeth Hastings, and Polly Tomlin did excellent playing in the guard field, while Brandenburg, Denning, Sime, Sowers, Vaiden, and Zimmerman backed the squad as reserve strength.

THE 1927 Girls' Varsity Tennis Team will carry the Buff and Blue into the field undefeated for three consecutive years. During the past season William and Mary, Frederick State Normal, Holton Arms, Marjorie Webster and National Park Seminary bowed before the invincible racquets of the Colonial co-eds.

This spring, besides the teams conquered last season, American University and Gallaudet will be met. With most of last year's squad back, the prospects are bright for a fourth year of victories.

Interest in tennis is running high and with the added inducement of a court recently made on the campus it should develop into one of the outstanding letter sports for women at the University.

GIRLS' swimming began March 1 with more than sixty co-eds reporting for practice during the first two weeks. This year marks the inauguration of a new system of awards whereby a swimmer upon the completion of a certain number of points gained for various strokes, dives, and life-saving work is given a minor letter.

The interclass meet, to be held at the end of the season, is arousing much interest and enthusiasm. The class of 1929, winner of the cup last year, will be given keen competition by the present Freshman class which has been exhibiting unusual ability.

Fourth Annual Inter-Class Track and Field Meet

(Held under auspices of Men's G. W. Club)

THE Fourth Annual Inter-Class Track and Field Meet, held Saturday, April 16, 1927, was captured by the Freshmen who piled up 67 points to win handily over their nearest competitors, the Juniors, with 52½ points. The Sophomores, who won the Meet last year, came next with 43 points, followed by the Seniors with 20 points and the Graduate School with 15½ points. To the Freshmen, therefore, will go the honor of possessing the Louis A. Fischer Silver Memorial Trophy for a year.

Wilbur Baker, Freshman, with 20 points, won the Thomas F. Probey Individual Point Trophy. The Women's Individual Point Trophy, donated by the Women's G. W. Club, was won by Leah Cate, Sophomore, with 13 points.

The Men's G. W. Club Point Medals were awarded as follows: Men's Open Events: H. Walker, second place gold medal, 15½ points; E. Hall, third place silver medal, 12 points; and C. Inter-Class Hockey

The inter-class hockey games are played every year as a preliminary to the varsity series. New material is in this way trained for the varsity team which is selected from those girls taking part. The Junior-Senior team remained undefeated during the series. The Sophomore team which won the cup last year gained second place. The most exciting game of the series was the second one played between the combined Junior-Senior and the Sophomore teams, but after a hotly contested battle the older team succeeded in defeating the Sophomores for the second time.

Class Rifle

The Junior-Senior Rifle Team won the class championship by a close margin when they defeated the Freshman squad by a single point, shooting a 240 out of a possible 250.

Excitement ran high in the matches due to the close rivalry of the competing shooters, and the fact that there was only two points difference in the final count between all the scores, the Sophomore team firing a 239 and the Freshman 238.

Inter-Class Basketball

In a series of inter-class games played preliminary to varsity practice the Senior sextet in several hard-fought contests showed their superior ability by winning the inter-class cup The Senior team outclassed the Sophomore squad by a large margin and the Freshmen easily overcome their sister class, the Juniors, to divide honors with the upper-classmen in a tie game. The Seniors won the play-off.

Campus Events

In keeping with a habit acquired some time in the past, the 27th of September was scheduled to arrive on time, and did so—to the supreme disgust of the 4550 (adv.) pursuers of knowledge enrolled at George Washington this year. In spite of the fact that it meant getting back to the old grind, it really wasn't disagreeable to see the "old familiar faces" again. Even Anne McCorkle's didn't look so bad after a long vacation from it. The only really unpleasant thing was having to hear the old alarm clock ringing in the very early hours of the morning. Of course, to most of us that is a signal for another nap to preclude the possibility of committing the inexcusable error of getting to class on time; one notable exception to this, however, being Rowland Lyon, who believes so strongly in his popularity that he thinks the alarm is the telephone bell and is tricked into getting out of bed to answer it.

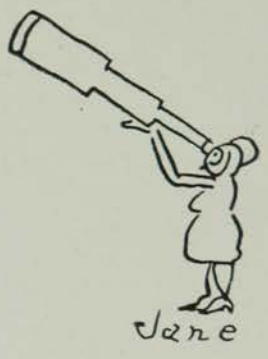

The first event, socially, of course, (nobody could ever consider anything except Jeanne Gravatte's return to school as the first important event) was the Pan Hellenic tea held in the new Women's Building and in honor of the new "women students". (Editor's Note: In keeping with our program of expansion it is necessary that mention of the new Women's Building take precedence over mention of the new students.) The Little Sister movement was adopted again this year and proved an excellent plan—for rushing. This was the first affair to which the upper class girls brought their newly acquired Little Sisters. In view of the fact that no sorority pins were to be worn until October 15, in keeping with the custom inaugurated last year, it was really remarkable the way the poor innocent little freshmen—purely by instinct, of course—managed to surround themselves with only those girls belonging to sororities of which they thoroughly approved. It really seemed quite a blow to some of the little dears who announced their preference quite decidedly to find that the sorority had something to say in the matter. This tea ably accomplished its purpose of making the freshmen more thoroughly acquainted with the school and their fellow-students. Some of them surely needed a little chance to get acquainted, especially Jane Blackistone who, on her first visit to the school, went around the block three times before she found it.

On October 11th, the Fourth Annual Roll Call was held on the back campus, with Rollo Carter as a very efficient chairman of the committee in charge. President Lewis contributed his usual share toward the success of the day by a most inspiring talk which was followed by the excellent address of Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty. Vincent Stubbs, as one part of the program, made a very creditable George Washington, and Margaret Maize looked as though she might have been Martha herself, not discounting the 125 odd years which have elapsed since that good lady's demise. The University is to be complimented on the fact that, in contrast to last year, only one participant of the snake dance became legally involved.

Following the snake dance, the Y. W. C. A. entertained at a Little Sister party in the Gym. (The Gym has now been the scene of everything but a day nursery.) At the door each girl was confronted by an array of colors from which to choose and became a member of the team wearing the colors of her choice. These teams opposed each other in the various contests held throughout the evening. It was a truly worthy example of inter-sorority competition. Of very major importance in the enjoyment of the evening was the attractive buffet supper prepared and served under the supervision of Ermyntrude Vaiden.

On October 15 rushing began with all the fervor saved up from three weeks of supposed inactivity. The fraternities (women's) were under a financial rushing limit this year of $265.00. When voting on the adoption of this limit the noble representative of Phi Mu was heard to remark, "Expenses are nothing to us—we have plenty of them". In contrast to the many expensive functions which the freshmen of former years have attended (gratis) this year's rushing consisted, to a great extent, of "Dutch Treat" parties. There is something really wonderful about the conceit that leads the Sigma Kappas to believe that anyone would pay for the privilege of being in their company. And the worst of it is that they got away with it!

The County Fair, sponsored by the Y. W. C. A., was held in the Gym on November 12. Dancing vied in popularity with the many attractive booths at which everything from "soup to nuts" could be purchased. Each sorority furnished a booth, and a contest was held to decide the most popular one, with ballots at five cents apiece. Gamma Beta Pi became the proud possessor of the handsome silver loving cup awarded as the prize for the winner of this contest. It's awful the way those nickels count up, isn't it, Marguerite?

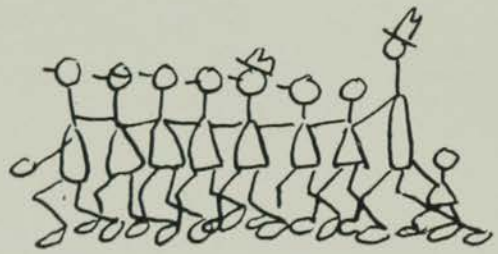

The next event of importance was the University Vodvil, which is becoming an established custom at George Washington. Two splendid performances were presented to good audiences on November 23 and 24. Acts were contributed by fraternities and other school organizations, and there were many good individual ones. We were a little anxious when the Kappa Delta act started as to when Al Sweeney, always a good S. P. E., had relinquished his fraternity to become Kappa Delta, but were relieved to know that he had just agreed to help them out as they said they needed a man—we readily agreed with them! Every thing went smoothly until Margaret McAllister, as Juliet, took poison. Then Bob Harper fainted and had to be carried out.

On Thanksgiving Day a subscription tea dance was held in Corcoran Hall under the auspices of the Interfraternity Council. This affair followed the G. W.-C. U. football game, the most important game on our schedule. The big problem of the day for most of us was just how to arrange the time of Thanksgiving dinner so that it would not conflict with the game or the tea dance. Either this was successfully arranged or a great many of the students went hungry (we doubt that!) for both were well attended.

On December 3 the Football Hop was held in the Gym with Jack Slaughter's Hotel Powhatan Orchestra furnishing the music. The dance was given in honor of the members of the team, who were "among those present". They probably would have come even if they hadn't gotten complimentary tickets. The principal feature of the evening was the presentation by President Lewis of the two athletic record boards which were purchased for the University by the Men's G. W. Club. Coach Crum then gave a talk on the work and accomplishments of the team. Our modest and retiring football captain, however, did not feel himself equal to the task of speaking before so many people and disappeared at the time when his speech was scheduled. In spite of this everyone seemed to have a good time and seemed sorry when the evening was ended.

Before the year seemed to have begun, Christmas arrived, bringing with it a continuous round of festivities. Both fraternities and sororities entertained at numerous parties, and all the studying saved up to do "during the holidays" somehow failed to get done. But even holidays must end, and on January 3 school started again with everybody earnestly wishing for another week in which to rest up from their vacations.

The next month seemed to most of us like a bad dream of study culminating in the awful nightmare of exams, with the byword of the day being "suppose I didn't make my grades!" Hundreds of good resolutions were promptly made as to the amount of studying that would be done during the new semester, and as promptly forgotten in the storm of rushing that overwhelmed the campus. The rushing season terminated on February 21, with each sorority satisfied that it had pledged the (number to be inserted to fit the case) best girls on the campus.

For no apparent reason, Junior Week, usually the most outstanding part of George Washington's social program, was conspicuous this year chiefly by its absence. As Junior Proms of former years have not been financially successful (to whom?) this year's Prom was postponed pending a decision by the student-body as to whether it would be well-supported. The Junior tea dance, however, was held in Corcoran Hall on February 22 and was, as always, thoroughly successful. All students of the University were invited to attend, and a great many members of the faculty were there. Elmer Brown's Orchestra furnished excellent music for the occasion, and the room was crowded to capacity. Yes, of course, it was free —didn't you see Snooks Leeby there? The number of stags became so great that even Abbie Burke got a rush! "The Razzberry," published by Pi Delta Epsilon, made its appearance at this tea dance. Anne McCorkle and Peggy Eckels certainly deserve credit for the amount of free advertising they managed to get out of this publication. Following the tea dance the Board of Lady Managers of George Washington Hospital gave their annual entertainment, "An Evening at Mount Vernon," before an audience including many prominent Washington people. Scenery in the Gym was so constructed as to resemble the banquet hall at Mount Vernon. The program consisted of selections by several well-known musicians.

March 11 was the night chosen for the Interfraternity Prom held at the New Willard and featuring Weidemeyer's Orchestra, sensationally advertised as having played at "every college in this part of the country of major importance except G. W."

We thank you! Fraternity and school songs were introduced at various intervals throughout the evening, the "White Star of Sigma Nu" shining brightly through all such lapses. Professor Kayser, nearly unrecognizable with the cigar which he valiantly relinquished for the occasion, was seen anxiously "drumming up trade" for the receiving line. By ten-thirty the crowds of students had so thoroughly maimed the shaking hands of the school dignitaries that they retired to the boxes to take a less active part in the proceedings. The promenade was led by Lillian Marceron and Vance Brand, and terminated in the formation of the letters I. C. During the promenade each couple passed a table where the favors—decks of cards in unique blue leather casings—were distributed. At the conclusion of the figure the scholarship and activities cups for the past year were awarded amidst thunderous applause from each of the groups which received a cup, and evidences of the greatest contempt for the whole proceeding from those not receiving a cup. At two o'clock "Good-night, Ladies" was played before anyone showed a willingness to depart, and George Washington's most successful prom became a thing of the past. As Vance Brand was heard to remark, "The success of an affair all depends on having the proper person in charge of it."

The social life of G. W. entered an entirely new era with the beginning of informal dances in the Gym on Saturdays during the chapel period. These dances were given by the Pep Club and were for the purpose of encouraging better school spirit by making the students better acquainted. The crowds increased in size each week in spite of the fact that after the first three dances a charge of ten cents was made for each person. It was interesting to watch Tom Tenniswood's expression relax as the wee sma' dimes finally totaled the amount needed to compensate the orchestra. The Charleston and Black Bottom rendered by three young representatives of the dusky race constituted the special feature of one of these dances. We felt deeply sympathetic for Harry Manlove as he strove week after week to find partners for both of his Saturday morning dates.

Whether or not the serpent who was associated with Saint Patrick was a bookworm is all Irish to us, but there must have been a commond bond somewhere as the Pan Hellenic Association chose March 16, which is only one day prior to the old saint's birthday, to celebrate the Scholarship Luncheon. The Senior Pan Hellenic delegates were entirely overcome because they were to lunch at Rauscher's for no reason except that they had represented their respective groups in all their fights for the past year. Margaret Maize, the toastmistress, was placed between Mrs. Doyle and Mrs. Joshua Evans, so that she was unable to eat quite as much as she wanted to. The active members and pledge of each sorority who had the highest averages were the other guests. The freshmen were the speakers of the afternoon and really did well, considering their lowly estate.

Interfrat-Prom Chairman etc.

The long delayed Junior Prom finally materialized in the Hall of Nations of the Washington Hotel with Baer's Wardman Park Hotel Orchestra taking excellent care of the musical part of the evening. In addition to the other pleasures of the evening, the final scene of the touching little drama of campus life was enacted, with Bill Wysong taking the part of the "Chairman of the Junior Prom", and Ted Shields cast in the stellar role as "The Power Behind the Throne".

The Pan Hellenic Prom, held May 2, in the large ballroom of the New Willard, was pronounced a knockout. The old time-worn custom of providing fraternity men with two dances for the price of one was revived again this year, and nearly all the gentlemen (?) dragging sorority girls to the Interfrat were present at Pan Hell. No favors were given to the men, as the Pan Hellenic Association could never be accused of initiating any features of the Gentlemen Greek Proms. The lack of favors was more than compensated, however, by the appearance of that yellow gossip sheet, whose title, "The Petticat," has long since become an archaism, which was distributed at $.— per each, at 12 o'clock by the members of Gamma Eta Zeta.

From now on the campus is more or less deserted, the library is crowded with students who, realizing that the 25th of May is not far distant, are cramming to their capacity. Oh yes, all of the familiar faces are here, but the carefree crinkling smile, has turned to a worried wrinkled frown. Well, we'll see you in the fall, "Here's how."

"RESOLVED: That Congress should enact uniform marriage and divorce laws."

Affirmative vs. Ohio Wesleyan.

Team: Ruth Kernan, Alice Nesbit, Marjorie Mothershead, Florence Smith.

Debated at Ohio Wesleyan on March 5, 1927.

Men's Debate

In all 45 debates were held the past season, 30 away from Washington, and 15 in Washington, which is believed to be the largest number ever held in one season by any American university. The main purpose this past season was to give the greatest number of men training and experience, rather than to win debates. The teams travelled over 7000 miles during the season.

On November 29, the international debate was held between Cambridge and George Washington, the subject being, Resolved, "That this House regrets the tendency of government to invade the rights of individuals"; G. W. having the affirmative, Cambridge the negative. Cambridge won by a vote of the audience, 325-166 (approximate). The Cambridge speakers were H. G. G. Herklots, W. G. Fordham, and A. L. Hutchinson. The G. W. speakers were J. R. Kirkland, W. F. Williamson, and John T. Trimble.

On March 16th, the team to tour England was selected after tryouts. The team is composed of John T. Trimble, W. A. McSwain, and W. F. Williamson. These three men have each been in at least 15 intercollegiate debates, and have already taken two trips together for G. W. When they finish the English trip, they will have travelled over 10,000 miles together. The team sails from New York on April 30th, arriving in London on May 9th. Seven English universities will be met, including Oxford, Cambridge, Edinburgh, and London. The tour will end May 31st, at Cambridge. The subjects to be debated are, Resolved, "That jury trial should be abolished"; Resolved, "That this House approves Prohibition"; Resolved, "That an educational requirement should be made a prerequisite for the granting of suffrage."

Members of the debating squad were John T. Trimble, Manager, W. A. Simpson, Assistant Manager, W. F. Williamson, W. A. McSwain, C. V. Hoagland, John F. Seymour, W. I. Cleveland, J. R. Kirkland, Ray E. Harris, Joseph Levinson, W. R. Ogg, Gwynn Sanders, E. A. Gallagher, J. H. Vesey, and Frank Smith. Besides those who went on trips, Sanders and Ogg were very active in home debates, Sanders participating in six.

Foreword

TO know wisdom and instruction; to perceive the words of understanding; to receive the instructions of wisdom, justice, and judgment, and equity; to give subtility to the simple, to the young man knowledge and discretion. A wise man will hear, and will increase learning; and a man of understanding shall attain unto wise counsels; to understand a proverb and the interpretation; the words of the wise men and their dark sayings.

Dedication

TO those who have a deep sense of humor; to those who are above taking offense at jokes on themselves; to those who share the opinion that Life is an adventure with its sad moments and glad; to those who look for the brighter and better sides of people; to those who can sense an incident with its bit of subtleness and engrave from it something that would make some one else smile and wonder; to those who have advantage of a situation and yet not take undue advantage of it; in short, to ourselves, the editors of this Feature Section, we most reverently and solemnly dedicate the following pages.

OUT IN FRONT

Where dates are made and scandal is passed; where girls "cat" and boys put on the "dog."

PATHS TO KNOWLEDGE

Ten o'clock scholars dragging sore foot and weary to classes twenty minutes late.

BUNNY-HOLE

Where, between hands of bridge and cups of tea, love matches are made and political schemes hatched.

ON THE FENCE

Six sick students soaking in the sun shower.

ON THE WALK

Where cigarettes are borrowed and powder compacts handed around for shiny proboscises.

LISTERINE HALL

The flag above in all its glory,
If it could talk, my, what a story.

THE OPEN DOOR

Some more of the hoi polloi hanging around Quigley's waiting for some politician to set the crowds to drinks.

DRUG ADDICTS

Women on the right, and women on the left,
To spend your money, they are quite deft.

CORCORAN HALL STEPS

Entrance to the Hall of Knowledge with beggars thronging on the threshold.

STOCKTON HALL

Where Van Vleck rules with an iron hand and girls are few in Criminal Law Classes.

REAR OF CORCORAN

With students emerging after having been disturbed in their sleep by the bell.

HATCHET OFFICE

With the four literati on whom the school is dependent for non-sensical editorials.

TWENTIETH STREET

Where cars are parked in any fashion by the tardy student.

THE TIN ROOF TABERNACLE

The pride and joy of our football mentor, and the scene of many dances and musical comedies.

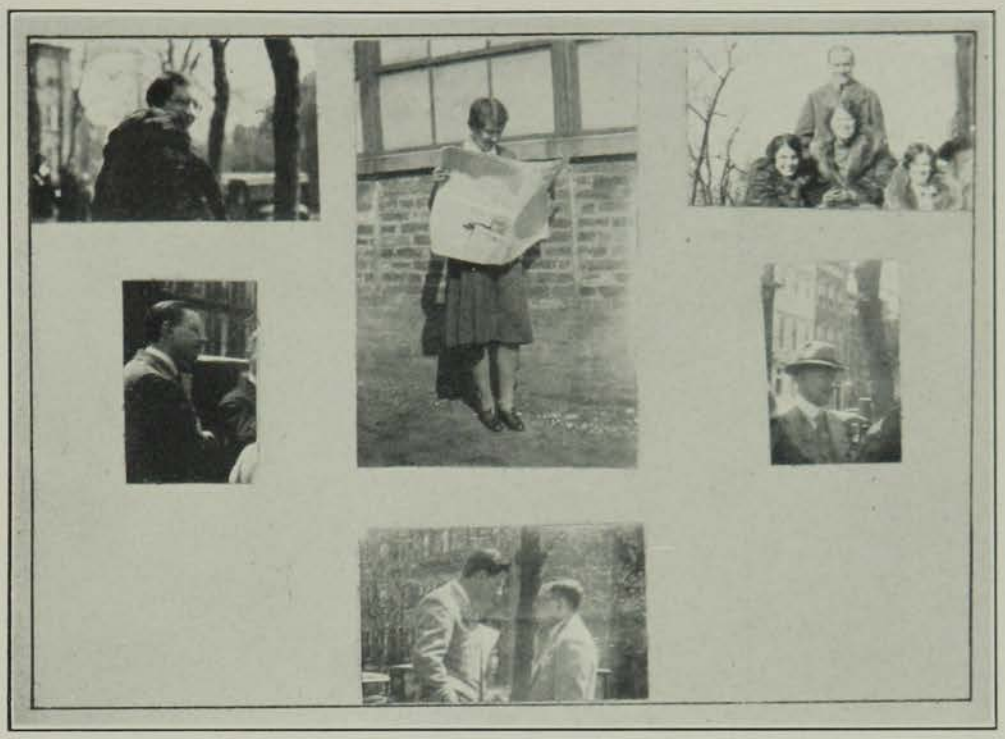

QUIGLEY'S

With the usual crowd of hangers around, exchanging jibes and wise crevices.

CO-OP STORE

Hang out for football rusticusses and ne'er-do-wells.

Our Profs.

THE intellectual powers above are none others than some of the guides to lead the poor blind student into fields of knowledge, experience and ambition. G. W. U. is fortunate in having on its faculty instructors and professors well versed in the studies which they teach and proficient in their manners of presenting it to the willing student. For the benefit of the student body it is a good thing to have good, wholesome and sound professors, who are congenial in classroom and out. Such G. W. U. boasts. While a faculty is only half of the working machine of a college, this faculty has done well its part for the general uplift and betterment of the university. Men and women of experience and diligent research, they are here to impart that knowledge in a way which makes the subject interesting and somewhat mysterious. However, professors are profs, and profs are human.—

Dean Rose is getting thin. She has spent the winter looking at cars. She has enjoyed all kinds of rides, in all kinds of cars, with all kinds of dealers—all winter. As yet she is still looking. The poor woman needs some recreation once in a while, however, with those Dorm girls running to her every day with terrible tales of woe about their rooms. One finished her story the other day by telling Anna that she couldn't even have her boy friends over if things weren't cozy. "Just think," she concluded, "we have to take them to the Co-Op store."

"Speaking of the Dorm girls," says Professor Ragatz the other day, "they suit me pretty well." No wonder the jolly little doctor knows so much about women with such excellent aids as "Snappy Stories", lyric poems, and a catalogued date book, containing dope on co-eds, in his possession.

Professor Bemis, 'Raggy's' co-partner, says, "No more of these d——n young teaching fellows for me. We're going to have a married one next year from Kansas." The cause of all the rumpus comes from too many campus crushes by such men as Assistant Professor Frazier and Assistant Professor Stewart.

As far as crushes are concerned, Augustus Haaskel, teaching fellow in Political Science, said recently that now that spring had come and girls were getting romantic he supposed that he'd have to hang a "busy" sign on his door.

And then there is Professor Smith, who is also pestered by women. His are all maiden ladies who take his "Romantic Movement" course too seriously. He says they call at his office at all hours.

Professors Moss and Hunter are different. They are especially fond of teaching their women. We always knew nurses had a way with them.

Professor Young of Building 14, however, thinks only of the one woman. His school teacher friend back in St. Louis is to be his very own in June. Just now his only worry is an apartment.

"Cutie" Mason, librarian, is rushing Ruth Howell these days. The courtship started by little Cutie offering to give the young lady some musical instruction, while the truth is she is a better musician that he is. She fell for the stuff on purpose and now they are hitting it up strong.

Professor Protzman has become mercenary recently. We saw him at Pearlman's selling all of his wife's old French books that she used in taking his courses last year. Apparently she got all she wanted out of them.

Professor Kerns, of the sociology department, has matrimonial troubles, too. He is buying a radio and has been for some time. The reason why he hasn't gotten it is because his wife wants a loud speaker and he doesn't. He says she is sufficient.

And say, what we don't know on Professor Kerns isn't worth knowing. He's the man who insists on telling his whole family history in class. However, he says there is yet a hidden chapter in his life which may be included in one of his courses next year. (Yes, there is still a chance to register in this particular course).

Professor Courtland Baker has at last come into his own. Lena Allen was heard to say that she was bored to death with all the high-school chaps who called her up for dates, but, "Oh, for a date with Professor Baker", she exclaimed. "He has the soul of a poet."

Professor West is not a poet but he is some chauffeur. He has never used his second-hand Ford except for trips in the summer, when he goes back to the mountains of Tennessee, where he was what he used to be instead of what he is now. In winter it is too cold he says and then he needs the exercise. In summer there is too much traffic. We suggest that if he'd hit the trail back to Tennessee a little more often he'd make better time with his mountain maiden.

College maidens aren't so dumb, though. Last year Professor Bassler pulled a young lady in his Geology class out of the water at Colonial Beach. This spring Professor Briggs pulled Louise Cocke, a pledge to A. D. Pi, out of the Canal. It seems to be the popular thing to do.

Q. E. D.: Profs are human.

We raised the "Bluff and the Blues" generally, around school this year. The Bunnyhole, the only place where women can smoke unmolested, where a five no trump bid is not uncommon and where no one's reputation is safe, sheltered many school worn souls. What a hubbub!

"She did," says Abby Burke, in one corner.

"What Sorority?" yells Billie Rhodes.

"I stay," says Charlie Holt, slamming something on the table.

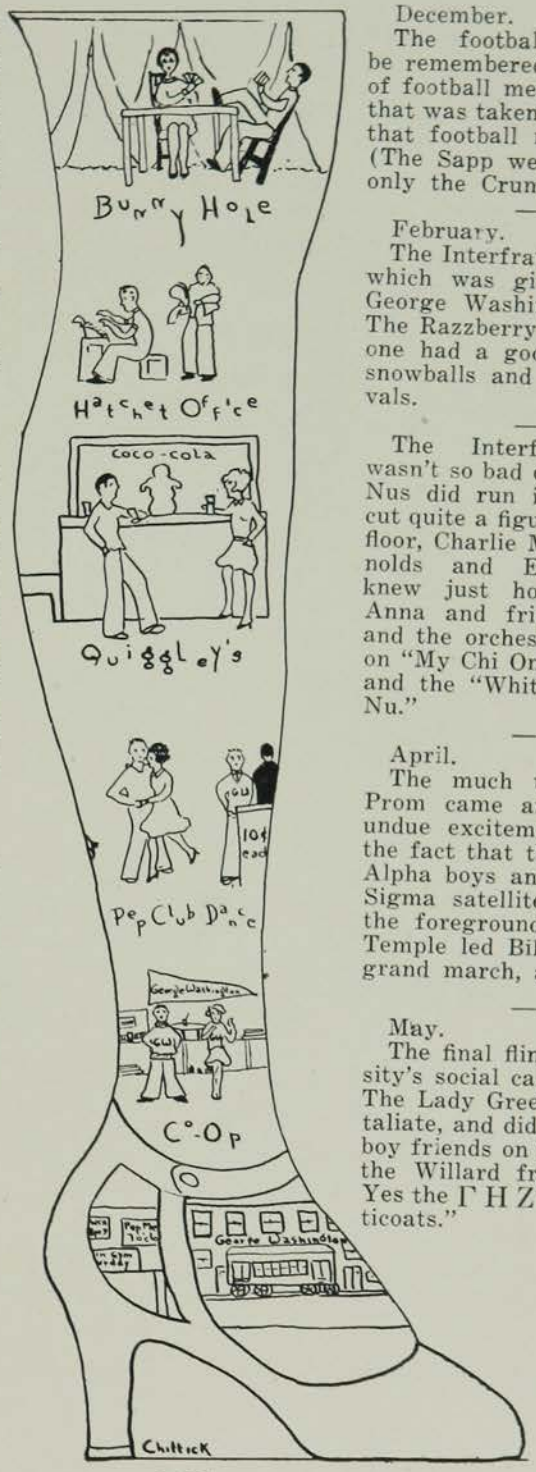

The Hatchet Office gang kinda came out of the dumps too. Robbaccio bought a clean deck of cards, and Rollo Lyon drew a fine model showing "what the smart young editors wear." However, the paper set has come under suspicion due to the demoralizing presence of George Campbell, Rolston Lyon and Tillie Ellenburger, who have been suspected of bootlegging in the office closet. "Pressie" Dennis may also be implicated.

Dime dances were quite the rage in the gym until the Pep Club decided to whoop the ante. With the extra proceeds thus gleaned from the participants of four struggles, the baseball team was completely outfitted with one pair of cleated shoes. It would have been much more profitable had the "Spirit" Club bottled their spirits.

Thanksgiving Day:

C. U. gave thanks
The game was won
G. W. gave thanks
The dance was on.

And what a dance! Ghosts were stalking but men were staggering. Stags staggered in, bestaggered with——. Destaggered out, restaggered with——. (Three guesses.)

December.

The football hop will long be remembered for the scarcity of football men, for the picture that was taken, for the speeches that football men didn't make. (The Sapp went away and left only the Crum.)

February.

The Interfraternity Tea Dance which was given in honor of George Washington's Birthday. The Razzberry came and everyone had a good time throwing snowballs and danced at intervals.

The Interfraternity Prom wasn't so bad even if the Sigma Nus did run it. Vance Brand cut quite a figure on the Willard floor, Charlie Maze, Bill McReynolds and Emily Pilkington knew just how many favors Anna and friends would like, and the orchestra lingered long on "My Chi Omega Sweetheart" and the "White Star of Sigma Nu."

April.

The much talked of Junior Prom came and went without undue excitement. Outside of the fact that the Delts, the Phi Alpha boys and the Phi Sigma Sigma satellites were much in the foreground and that Mary Temple led Bill Wysong in the grand march, all went well.

May.

The final fling of the University's social calendar was flung. The Lady Greeks decided to retaliate, and did battle with their boy friends on the tenth floor of the Willard from ten 'til two. Yes the Γ H Z's sold their "Petticoats."

Fashion—Fashion—Fashion

Here we have everybody still trying to keep up with everybody else——. There's Louise Omwake, who's trying to find more activities than Ermyntrude, and yet not stop long enough to lose her tennis match.

And when Jimmie Cate and Alys Ewers aren't speaking it probably means Jimmie's been beaten in another seventy-yard dash. That was a good race, wasn't it; in fact, it rather upset all the dope of the track meet.

It is generally understood that Miss Hopkins is weeping many tears of anguish to think of the end of the year. It means parting from Friend Sowers. Such devotion —such adoration—such attention! ! It really shouldn't be passed without some commendation (?) (echoing Myrtle Crouch, "sissy on her").

Varsity basketball was carefully dismissed at the banquet given by Dean Rose in Omar's Tent. (Shades of Arabia) Even Betty Brandenburg, who's slow as the proverbial molasses, was there on time.

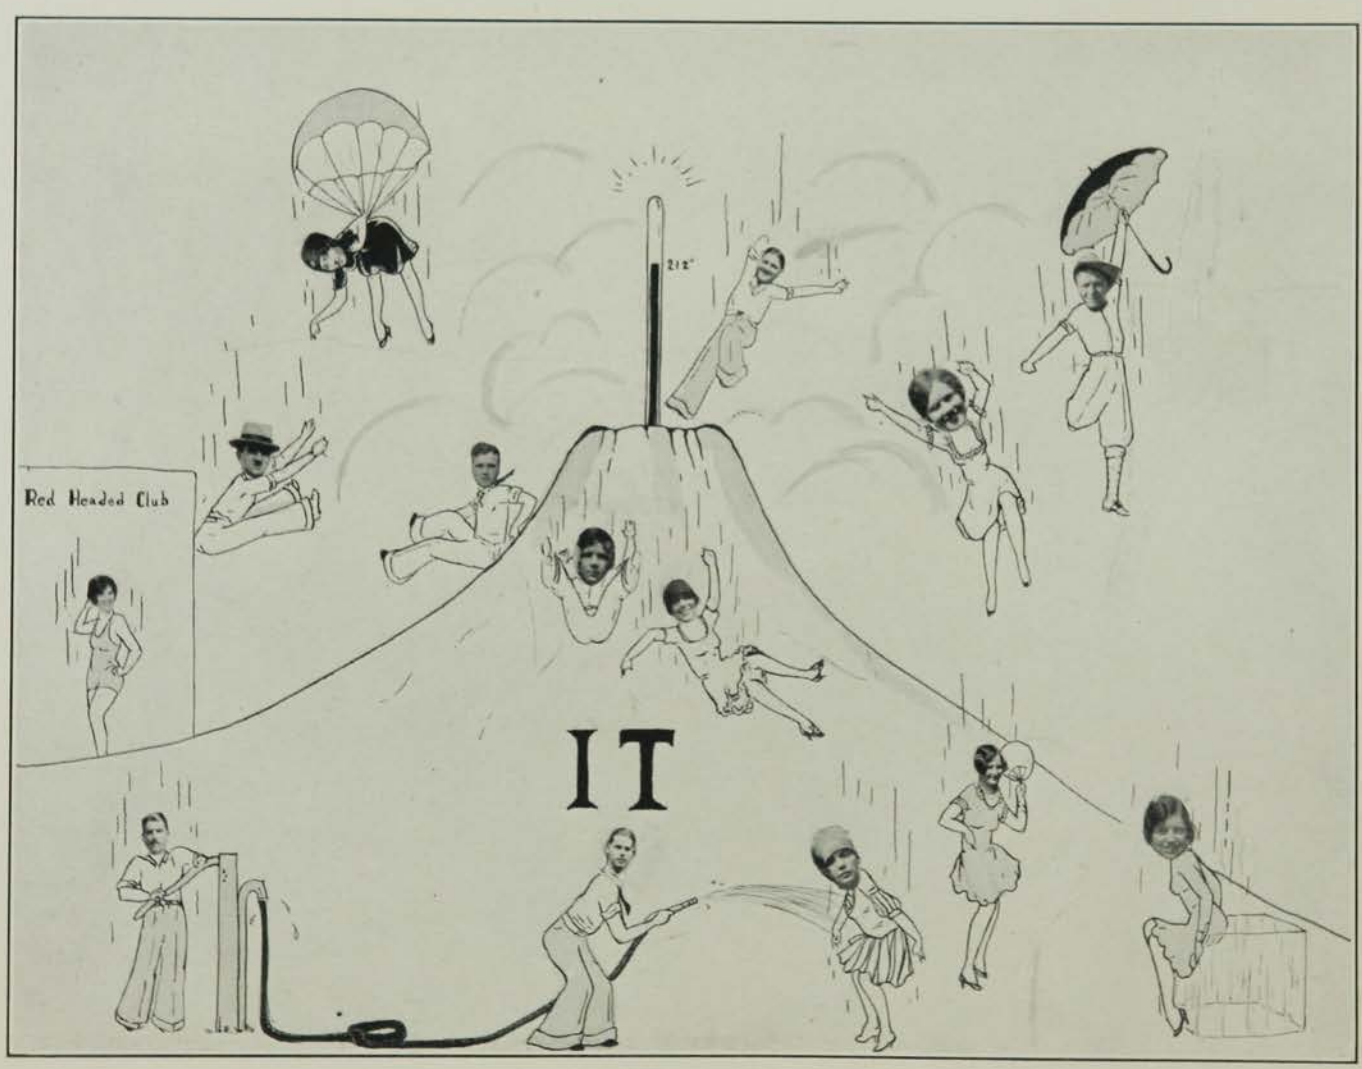

Basketball's a great game, though, no matter how it's played. Even if you play all positions, as Maxine Alverson does, or use your face like Mary Chisholm; if you gallop with Polly Tomlin, or slide for the basket with Naomi, or determine to do or die as Winnie Faunce does.

O, these athletic women!

There are two classes—those who would and those who won't. Illustration: Estelle and Helen Humphries, those who would but can't—plenty of energy, but——.

And: Kit Carson and Glenys Hamilton, those who can but won't. So much so, in fact, that they'll probably express their affection for Miss Hopkins by returning to gym. next year. (Editor's note—thirteen cuts, bad luck).

Wouldn't it be funny if Margaret Knapp and Elizabeth Zimmerman should get together? Margaret would enjoy herself as usual, by talking her head off; and Elizabeth would have just as good a time saying nothing.

Red Headed Club
IT

"IT" is a fire that nature has lighted
In a few girls to get men excited.
Describe IT—we can't; except that it's nice.
You'll know when you find it,
You will run for the ice,
You'll melt it.

"IT" in a man is more than mere heat;
It's brains, personality, a certain technique;
The power to quell with a stern, hard eye,
And yet make the girl respond with a sigh—
With a sigh!

With the spirit of Anthony Comstock hovering above, Madame Elinor Glyn, accompanied by Dean Rose, surveyed the campus of George Washington University in an effort to pick those who were possessed of IT. Many of the brighter lights of the student body offered their photographs for inspection and it gives us pleasure to make known some of the results. On the back of the photographs we find these notations by Madame Glyn:

"Miss Best's face does not reveal one iota of personality that should be evident in a second-year student. Her silly giggle which half way covers her ignorance will never fetch an engagement ring. She may have IT, but she shares that opinion herself."

"Miss Brandenburg, in spite of eating yeast cakes daily, is still able to retain her poise, pose and passionality. She is the type, however, who, after reading the dictionary, would exclaim that the subject changes too much. She deserves the cake of ice for such she is, according to Bob Williams."

"Miss Latimer, by the use of several bottles of henna, suddenly thrust herself into popularity with the Read Head Club. Such methods to gain attention are absolutely unworthy of a person who is supposed to have IT. Furthermore, her evening gown is entirely too abbreviated."

"Miss Kit Carson, thinking herself possessed of enough IT to don the tights of a chorus girl in 'Not Yet Fleurette', blundered by her loud tramping of the boards behind the footlights. She is lacking in form, frame, and fire."

"Alec Porter at the pump is as innocent of his surroundings as is Maud Muller in the field. Though Alec came out of that hickishness quite a good deal in the last year, he has yet many tough miles to go before he can proclaim himself a convert to IT. He should return that mustache to that alley cat he caught."

"Miss Virginia Blackistone is so sweet that she has to carry a fan to ward off the flies. Virginia's richness in personality is reaching out as far as Maryland, but when we scratch the surface a little deeper we find it is a K. A., and then we are sorry we scratched."

"Miss Myrtle Crouch continues to fly high in the campus circles, but she is rocking the cradle by hanging on to an overripe high-school love. Babies never have IT, even if their skirts are longer."

"Miss Helen Taylor, with her traveling salesman smile, is sufficiently endowed with IT to get her over in any crowd other than the one she is now entertaining. Her shortness prohibits her from racing after the athletic type of male, so she has to be content with a runt like Rae Edmonston."

"Miss Jane Blackistone is placed on the page only because there was no male head to place on the drawing.

"Vernon Brewster, wandering Greek, probably wonders why he merits a place among the immortals. The reason is his lack of self interest, his dynamic personality and his swanlike neck."

"Frank Lunding is shown shooting off at the spout, or in campus parlance, spraying the bull (though we do not mean to intimate that Kit Carson possesses bovine characteristics).

"Mr. Harold Merrick, erstwhile exaggerator and four flusher, emerged from the sticks with hay seed in his hair, but with a job secured by his Congressman he was able to land himself in with the stenos and women secretaries in the House Office Building, where it is whispered he does some suspicious entertaining. He has the Congressional IT."

"Mr. Ralph Brownie, of Vermont and Cabin John, is seen floating down with his umbrella from heights of popularity to which he gained only through his own estimation. He has IT just as much as the other natives of Vermont."

Classes

THERE are three kinds of classes at George Washington, the kind you're supposed to attend every day, the one in which you are enrolled at the Registrar's Office, and the gang with which you hang out. According to most collegians, the first type has little significance, the second is important only at election times, and class games, but the last is the really big time one.

"What does it matter," some sing, "if math is never done, if we beat them and have some fun?"

"What does it matter", they continue, "if I still rate "Frosh", it's good enough for me, by gosh."

Today, tomorrow, next day, time flies on. Things happen, the bell rings and rings again. Classes begin, then end and students are here and gone.

Speaking of things happening, did you ever hear about class elections? Yes, but did you ever hear about election returns? You didn't? Well, look in King Tut's tomb, you might find some.

As soon as school began, the sophomores started electioneering. Ray Edmonston and his crowd had a little meeting and lined up their allies. Helen Taylor and Billie Wright were at the meeting. Helen just had to be on Ray's side, because she and Ray—well——. Billie had always found the Edmonston-Taylor combination dependable, so she stuck with them. They thought this all out on account of they were fellow classmates of the above-mentioned third class, and utterly disregarded Sigma Chi —Pi Phi—Sigma Kappa. Well, Ray just happened to be walking down "G" street the next day and met Stan Clarke. Stan told Ray that Sigma Chi could depend on S. A. E., and then whispered confidentially that since he was managing Ann McCorkle them days he was sure he could get the Phi Mus. Pretty soon the K. A's foresook their Chi O mamma, Betty B, and with Acacia, Delta Zeta, and Theta Delta Chi, got Sigma Chi-ism and were converted to Ray's coalition.

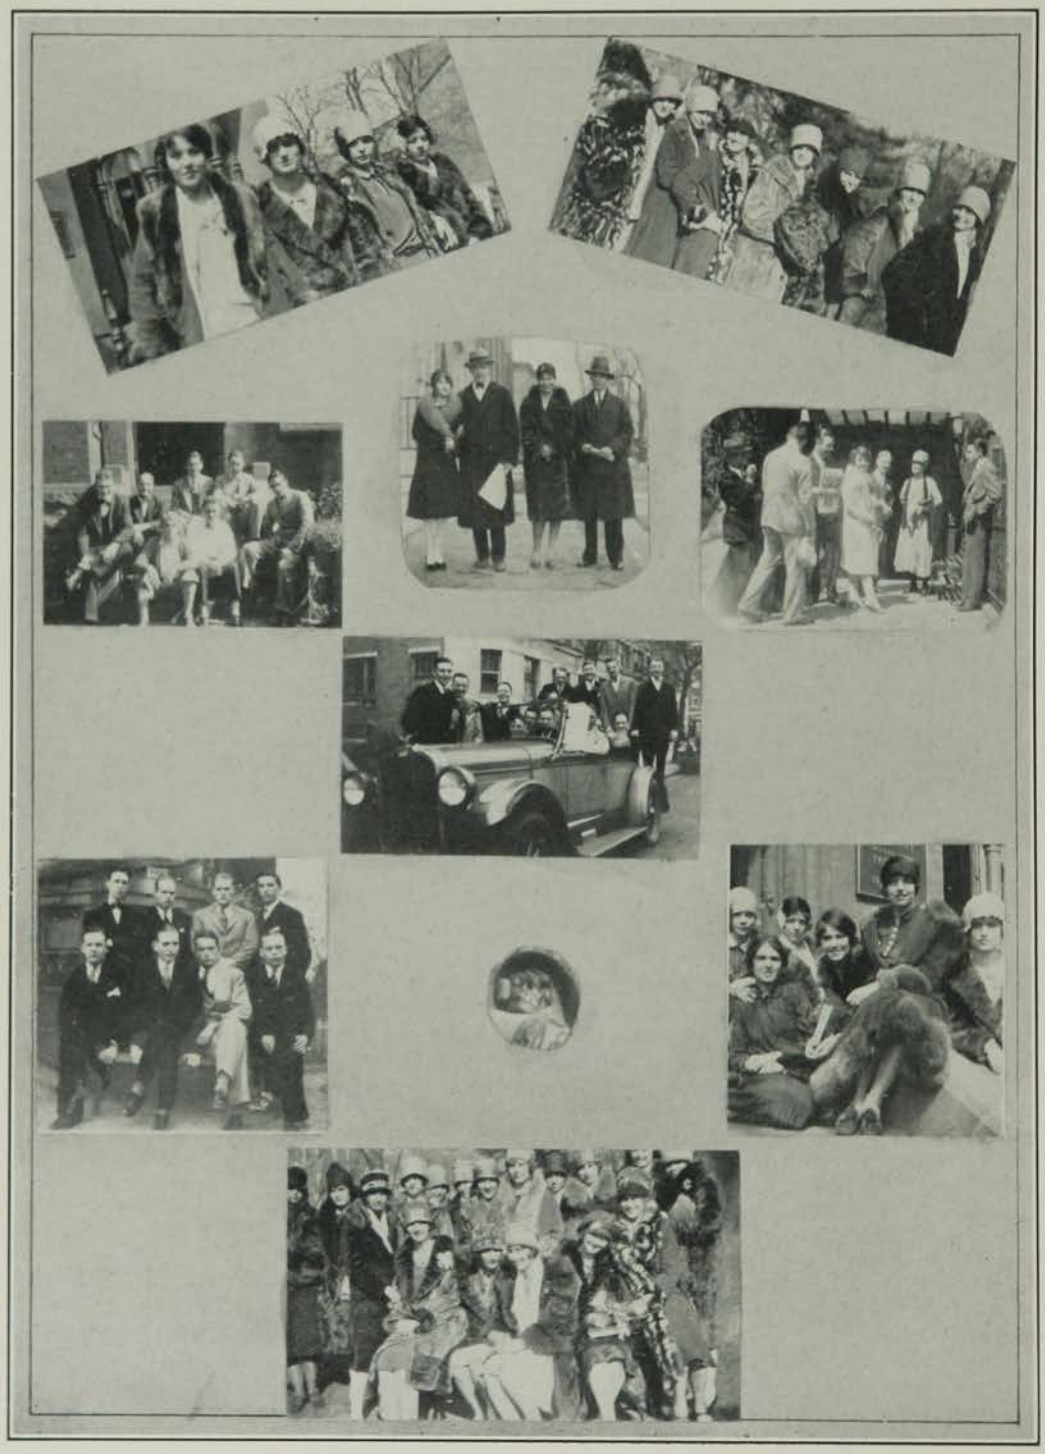

This left all the rest as their opponents, and Jeanne Gravatte, Chi O's political boss for the past eight or nine years, Marguerite Daly, as above, except she is a Gamma Beta Pi, Lynn McCormack, aspiring Sig, Charley Holt, yes, he made the Delts, Harriet Ross, A. D. Pi, Tommy Mount, S. P. E., Pat Flaherty, Kappa Sig, and George Martin, Phi Sig, were no little opposition. They were out for blood. They put out a strong sophomore ticket with "Personality" Alewine for President, and "Sex Appeal" Dunning for Sergeant-at-Arms. Notwithstanding the fact that Ray Edmonston apologized to Mary Temple for trying to lure Cleon Fierstone away, the Sigma Nu—Chi O combination proved strongest and Ray's side went down.

Everyone made a big hullabaloo over Frosh Elections, and when after four months of watchful waiting Professor Doyle finally announced the two big candidates had withdrawn from school. Bill Shaw, S. P. E., who had been elected vice-president, therefore became the honorary president of the Class of '30, and the rest of the offices were split between the two parties.

Then came the Junior party and was it "hot"? I guess so. Both sides put out their cream and spread it on thick. Once again the opposition pulled through on top. Kennie Abrams and Mamma Brandenburg overpowered the politicians Brookhart, Jr., and McCorkle. Ruth Newburn, however, Ray's candidate for secretary, pulled her debating strings hard enough to get through. Part of the success of the Sigma Nu-Chi Omega ticket was due to George Martin and his Phi Sig Gang, who used their political "pull" and pulled the "Hatchets" off the campus for a day or so; someone had tipped George off that the opposition had some vote-getting propaganda published in it, for Ray's candidates.

"We're not dead 'til we're buried", said Ray, and his peanut politicians went to work to win the Senior elections. Vaiden Baggett (spell it with an "E") and Bradford (yes she is still here) headed the opposition's ticket. Luck was with them and Ray told Helen the next day that he thought he'd go to Congress yet.

If you can read between the lines, you'll see that classes only count in elections, and that the real class distinction comes when you've allied yourself with one of those little secret groups which move and figure in all things.

Celebrities

THE five men who "rate" mention on this page are here because they have won for themselves a place in the work and the play of G. W. They are outstanding for many strange and sundry reasons. With these all well in mind we nominate to our hall of fame:

Henry Sapp,—because he was captain of the football team; member of the basketball squad; star in baseball; wears his sweater wrong side out; is a Kappa Sig; has innocent eyes and fully lives up to his name.

Fred Wallace,—because he was captain of the basketball team; promenades a lot; chews "blackjack"; supposed to have "IT"; because Beth Hayes likes him and he is a Phi Gam.

Johnny Ketcham,—because he was finally elected President of the Interfraternity Council after the recent rumpus; is a big man and has curly hair; is a heart smasher and always runs as hard as he can for S. P. E. on its relay team.

Henry James,—because he is in everything and no one knows how he gets in; because he talks slower than anyone else and has more Irish than Scotch in his veins; because he is a good family man and sets an excellent example for university students, and attends meetings at the T. U. O. house.

Howard Baggett,—because he is editor of the "University Hatchet"; (this enables him to always have comp tickets); because he is business manager of "The Ghost" (this accounts for his extra spending money); because he lives in Alexandria; can run a mile for an ad, and wears more pins than any man in the university.

George Washington Women are just as outstanding as men. The Capital's prettiest girls are here. There are 1057 varieties on the campus. However, every school must have its famed ones, so let's have ours. They are—

Ermyntrude Vaiden,—because she is manager of the Women's National Champion Rifle Team; because she is a splendid candidate for any office; because she has the longest list of activities in the Senior Section; because she is the editor's manager; because she can shoot a rifle with any man and has never shot one.

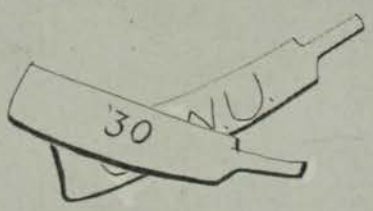

Frances Randolph Weber,—because she has scratched her way to fame with her pen; because her journalistic designs compare favorably with her matrimonial ones but her general "resigns" beat them all; because she prefers "Lucky's" and is a good person to have on your side.

Ruth Newburn,—because she has a marvelous gift of chatter which is especially helpful in debating and rushing for Pi Phi. Because she is always a waitress in the spring musical comedy and has splendid ability for a future feminated club woman.

Louise Omwake,—because she can't help being tall; always gets the tip in basketball; fully guards the goal in hockey; is a member of Y. W. C. A.; is the kind of a girl girls remember.

Frances Walker,—because she makes a lot of racket in a tennis tournament; is another one of the "resignees"; is a Sigma Kappa, always running for something; a good student; a member of Sphinx.

Helen Newman,—because she is a member of the Law School Faculty, a member of an international legal fraternity, a Chi Omega, and a good friend of the Stockton Hall boys.

Glimmerings of Animation at the Law School

A STORY

One day while slowly making our way up Pennsylvania Avenue toward the Law School, an out-of-towner stopped us with the inquiry, "Pardon me, but did you speak to those three young men with brief-cases?"

We admitted that we had.

"And aren't they employed by the Government?" was the question. We glanced at the retreating backs of three stalwart young men, striding along, shoulder to shoulder, rigorously in step, jaws set, grimly marching toward the setting sun as though defying legions.

We ventured, "They probably are."

"See! See! I told you so!" was the delighted cry. "They're Government Vigilance Men or Prohibition Agents!"

It would be a splendid thing for the Law School if someone would insist that the students approaching school look less like hangmen going to an execution.

A pleasant smile has many a time assured the owner of success, but without a doubt, John Roberts' fluent profanity has won an A for him in a certain Friday "nite" class.

Pat Flaharty, although an undergraduate, has an extensive acquaintance with "cases" already.

GOSSIP

Some time ago Pat attended a party, and the hour was growing early, it was suggested by his hostess that he leave, the other guests having departed long ago. Pat, having decided otherwise, made numerous suggestions for his accommodation for the few remaining hours usually allotted to slumber. Said hostess anxiously protested, and finally in desperation cried, "But, Pat, really, I have no place for you to sleep!" Pat gazed at her steadfastly in an effort to get her meaning, then, the import of the remark having penetrated, lowered his eyes to the davenport on which he sat and solemnly surveyed that article of furniture. Presently his eyes traveled back to her face, a ray of understanding showing through his bewilderment. "Hell!" he exploded, "don't you s'pose I know this thing pulls out!" Loyal fraternity brothers relieved the situation.

Professor, after naming desirable text books for reviewing, "But when I was in college I never read anything."

Weary Student: "I believe yuh!"

First Stude—Where's Professor Moll, he's fifteen minutes late?"

Ed Leisure—I'll bet he's lost his notes.

GOOD PROSPECTS FOR A DAIRY

Prof—Suppose A. Godley bought 100 bushels of grain, two cows, and a milk-pail —what am I looking for?

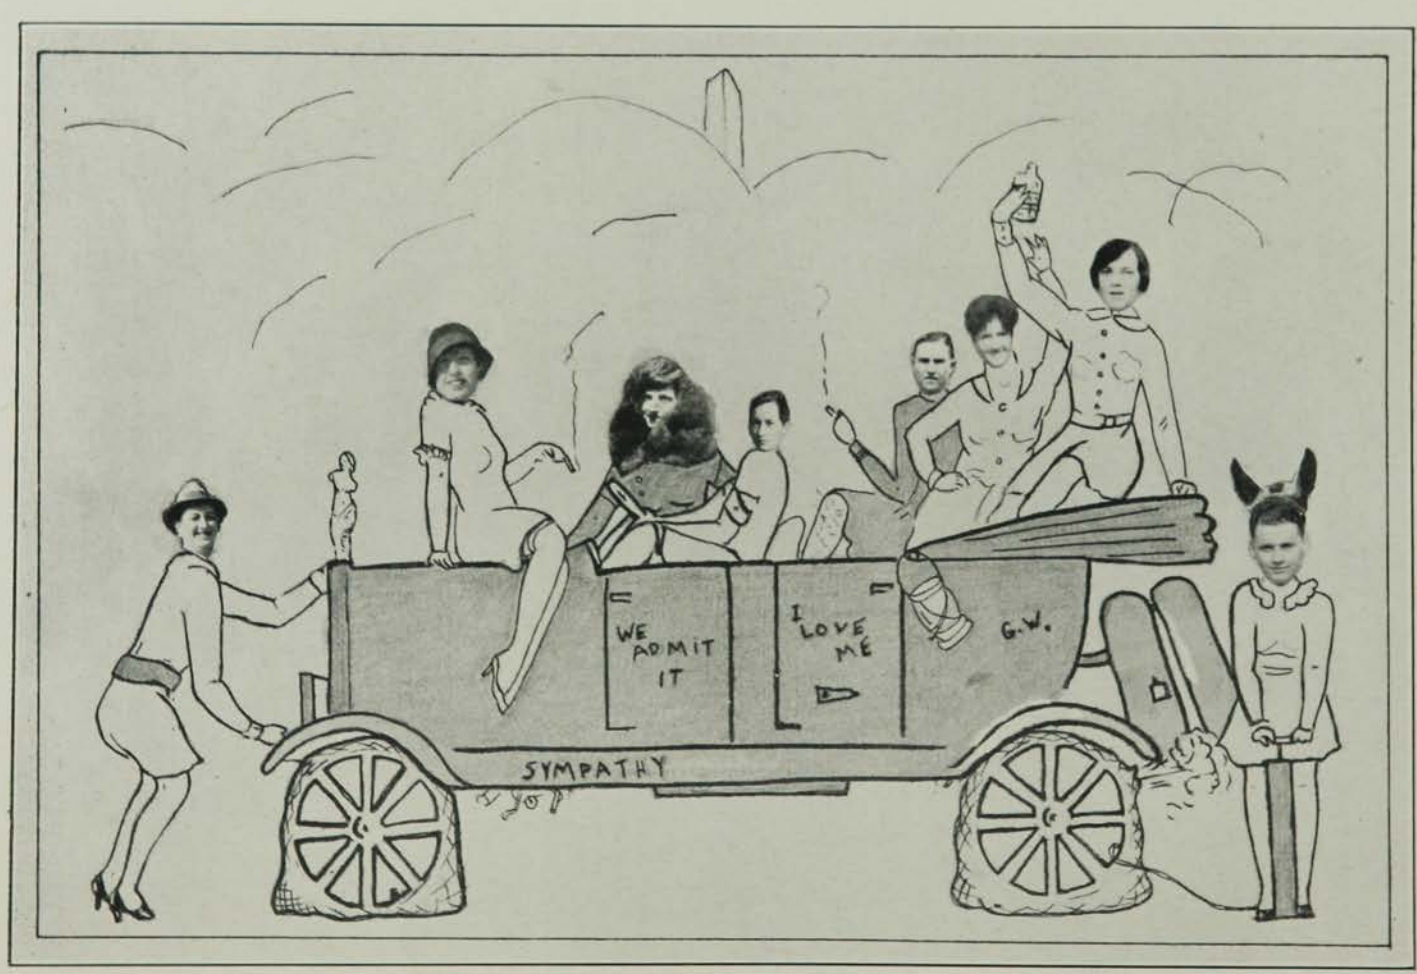

Voice in Rear of Room—Big business, I should say!

TEACHING THE PROF

Professor Evans—At comomn law contract actions were not personal and therefore did not survive, while tort actions were regarded as personal and did survive—to my mind there's no difference.

Deibler—But there is though!

Recently a member of the Senior Class was forced to leave school before the end of the term, his partner was therefore left to handle their two cases alone. Those of us who heard Ardis Smith argue her two cases single-handed feel that her victory refutes the growing belief that "There ain't no such thing as justice!"

WE ADMIT IT
I LOVE ME
G.W.
SYMPATHY

Professor Moll, after a messenger had been dispatched to bring him to his class room, appeared (almost half an hour late), in an unprecedented good humor, and after blinking solemnly at his class several seconds smiled helplessly and said, "I haven't got the right kind of glasses. I can't look at this class without getting dizzy!"

Acacia may have won the scholarship cup, but the K. A.'s got the glory.

Those faculty members who are hurt by the non-support of the students of the annual banquet are beginning to taste the disappointment felt by students in the lack of sympathy shown them by the average prof. One poor harassed stude put it tersely. After grinding all day in an office he made his way to class, weary in mind and body, in the hope of having a particularly difficult case made clear. The brief was recited and the Prof, reading a few remarks from his notes, called for the next case with the statement, "If you'll read your cases you'll get the law." The student (an "A" student) raised his eyes to the Prof. and smiled acridly, "So long as I pay my tuition and that boy covers his thirty pages, that's all they care about me here!"

If a man were to give another an orange he would simply say, "Have an orange." But if this transaction were entrusted to one of our promising lawyers, say Clifton Moore, he would probably insist that it be reduced to writing and that language after the following manner be used.

"I hereby give and convey to you, all and the singular, my estate and interests, right, title, claim, and advantages of and in said orange, together with all its rind, juice, pulp, and pips, and all rights and advantages therein, with the full power to bite, cut, suck, and otherwise to eat the same or give the same away with or without the rind, skin, juice, pulp, or pips, anything hereinbefore or hereinafter or in any other means of whatever nature or kind whatsoever to the contrary in anywise notwithstanding."

Some are naturally so, some achieve it, some have flatness thrust upon them.

In every American college there is always a group of students looked upon as being sort of queer, lacking the make-up of the average collegian, and always wanting to know what it's all about. This is a regrettable situation, yet we are obliged to endure it. There are other characteristics that individualize such a person but they are too numerous to record. As a whole, they are dubbed by the not-so-dumb as out and out "flat tires." G. W. U. is well represented in this group, as we see.

Jerry Stickler might have yelled this about some one else through his magnaphone, Cleon Fierstone might have written it about anyone on the back of one of his calling cards, Lynn McCormack might have confidentially whispered it about one of the opposition during class elections, Jimmy Cate might have shown it in her figure, Marion Campbell might have looked it through her glasses and Abbie Burke might have displayed it in her lingo, yet they would all throw up their hands in horror if any one insinuated that they had it, flatness.

George Washington is swamped with many of them. Fortunately for the victims none of them realize their condition.

"I'm God's gift to women," says Jerry, the man who never wears a hat. He is a gift, too. He's overstuffed.

"Greetings, felicitations, salutations, and best wishes," says Cleon Fierstone as he approaches with his slick derby sitting on his ears.

"No, no, let me tell you," says Lynn McCormack, Sigma Nu's peanut politician, "if you really want the low down on this affair I'm the man for you."

If Suter would grow up and wear a corset he'd be flatter still. If all the flat tires would take the air once in a while,—well—

Girls don't have to be flat to be dumb. Maybe they are dumb because they like being masculine. When it comes to masculine women, Jimmy Cate and Ruth Jackson are right there. Jimmy furnishes sex-appeal for the Kappa Deltas and Ruth can't help it because she was born to be a woman.

"I caunt," says Abby Burke, lighting another cigarette. "I was out with you laust night."

Marion Campbell bobbed her hair to look young, but she can't fool every one. She has enrolled in Law School because Columbian was a little difficult and out-of-date.

It takes all sorts of people to make the world go 'round.

L'envoi

Listen, my children, and you shall hear
Of the campus cliques and their tales of cheer,
Of parties and frocks and men with gold
And girls who know how to get and hold.

Down in the Bunnyhole holding forth
We heard dear Mabel stop to report,
"I'm not good looking, but oh! how cute!"
And another man fell—

When the day is rainy, and bleak, and drear,
One can watch Ted Shields shed a bitter tear
For the good old days of wine and gin,
Though the lack of drink means nothing to him.

Have you ever seen our faculty sleuth?
In front of the Bunnyhole we'll build a booth
To give Mr. H———— a grandstand seat,
That he may watch us drink and eat.

Over our concrete campus one day
Came Anne McCorkle, as usual gay—
"Oh Stan!" she called with her famous grin,
Please give me advice about how to begin".

Then Stan, as chivalrous as of old,
With a stealthy smile, did his plans unfold.
"But don't forget," cautioned wise old Stan,
"In politics this year I haven't a hand".

The Johns Hopkins Group is one of the finest examples of artistic expression in brickwork the world over. The treatment is absolutely normal. There is no exaggeration. The blend of colors is mellow and exquisite, and the whole effect architecturally and artistically correct.

Rowland Lyon, popular and well-known campus sheik, deserves the pink spats and brown derby for ridding himself of Gini' Latterner after the "Sigma New" Dance in time to take in the Bohemian party with "Betty B."

A BURST OF ULTRA-MODERN LIT

Did you ever think as the hearse rolled by,
That within that hack is some poor guy,
Who, two nights before, in a moment of glee,
Decided to go on a Hell of a spree?

He rushed to the phone, placed his nickel in right,
Then shouted at central and gave her a fright,
"Call Scotch 550," he chirped with a grin
That completely erased his thirty-first chin.

"Hello, is this you? It's me, can you hear?
Say, how's the chances for a quart of cheer?"
From the other end came a voice very gruff,
"I'll send you over a quart of the stuff."

From the phone he rushed up the three flights of stairs,
Three cheers and hurrah, he'll forget all his cares.
A few minutes later and in walks a sport,
A whisper, five dollars, the boy has his quart.

Soon a cab rolls up, and he calls for his girl,
"Come on," he says, "we're going for a whirl,"
He took three drinks, the girl took none,
"Whoopee," he yells, "we'll surely have fun."

But three hours later, flat on the floor
Our hero lies, he'll r'se no more,
The liquor was young, but it worked mighty fast,
The poor dear boy had breathed his last.

There's a moral for you in this story sad
For every lassie and every lad;
Be very careful where you buy your booze,
Or you will be taking that indefinite snooze.

So stop and think as the hearse rolls by,
If we're not careful, you and I
Will go rolling by in that big black hack,
Never, never to come back.

Plunk! Plunk! Punk!!
